THE 'STANDARD' AHEAD OF ALL PAPERS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

The following are the heads of the news brought by the America:—

New York, April 8, Morning.

Sheridan, followed by Meade, pursuing Lee, had continued fighting since Monday. They report a severe engagement near Burkeville, in which Lee was routed and Ewell and five other generals, together with many prisoners and guns, were captured. Sheridan thought that Lee would surrender.

Sherman commenced moving on Saturday.

Canby is within five miles of Mobile. The attack on the city had commenced.

New York, April 8, morning.

According to official despatches Sheridan, followed by Meade, with three corps, kept up the pursuit of Lee in the direction of Amelia Courthouse since Monday. On Wednesday they reached Gettesville, on the Danville Road, capturing at James Cross-Road, 5 guns, 200 waggons, 9 flags, and a number of prisoners. Lee was at Amelia Courthouse on Wednesday.

On Thursday Sheridan reported as follows:—"The enemy made a stand at the intersection of Burke's Station-road with the road upon which they were retreating. I attacked them with two divisions of the 6th Army Corps, and routed them handsomely, making connexion with cavalry. I am still pressing on with cavalry and infantry. We have captured Generals Ewell, Kershaw, Butten, Corse, De Bangs, and Curtiss Lee, several thousand prisoners, 14 guns, 2 cassions, and a large number of waggons. If the thing is pressed, I think Lee will surrender.

On Thursday morning Meade was moving towards Amelia Courthouse and ascertained that Lee was moving towards Painesville. Meade immediately changed his course, and marched three columns against Lee.

The Second Corps engaged the enemy near Dantonville and drove him across the Sailor's Creek. The Sixth Corps was unable to strike the enemy before he passed. It, however, came up with him in the afternoon, and, in conjunction with the Second Corps, routed him capturing many prisoners.

Humphreys reports that on Thursday night Lee was in position on the heights beyond Sailor's Creek. The bridges had been destroyed. Dumphreys could not pursue rapidly during the night. Generals A. P. Hill, Pegram, and Fitzhugh are reported killed.

The following are further details of the occupation of Petersburg and Richmond:—

Davis, together with the members of the Cabinet and the Congress, and the newspaper editors, left Richmond on Sunday night by the Danville road.

General Weitzel entered Richmond early on Monday morning, and established his head-quarters in Davis's house. The Mayor had previously gone out to surrender the city. Weitzel proclaimed martial law, and assured protection to the citizens. 30,000 inhabitants remained, half of whom were negroes. In Richmond Weitzel captured 800 cannon, 5,000 muskets, 1,500 prisoners, 5,000 muskets, 3,000 wounded, 30 locomotives and 300 cars. No tobacco was found. All the business portion of the main street to the river was burned.

The iron-clads were exploded, and the Virginia lies sunk in the obstruction above the James River.

Sheply has been appointed military governor. He has prohibited pillage.

Judge Campbell and Lee's wife remain in Richmond.

There is much suffering among the population, rich and poor being alike destitute of food.

General Weitzel is supplying all who take the oath.

The Tredegar works are unharmed, and the machinery is now under Weitzel's orders.

A plan to blow up the city was discovered and frustrated.

The Petersburg Railroad bridge and the Danville Railroad bridge were destroyed, the former totally, and the latter partially.

The Mayor of Petersburg surrendered the city to the Federals. The public stores and a few houses had been burned, but the city was little damaged.

The Confederates had removed nearly all the artillery, and destroyed nearly 1,000,000 dols. worth of tobacco.

Lincoln visited Richmond on Tuesday, and was enthusiastically received.

The "Herald" asserts that Lincoln has opened negotiations with Judge Campbell for a settlement with the South, and that Davis requested the latter to remain in Richmond for that purpose.

Sherman's army was about to move on Saturday last. The left wing would probably advance in the direction of Raleigh, and the centre and right towards Virginia by the Weldon Railroad.

An unsuccessful incendiary attempt had been made to burn Newhurn.

A large cavalry and infantry force, under Hancock, had moved up the Shenandoah valley towards Lynchburg.

The naval attack on Mobile commenced on the 28th. Heavy skirmishing took place around Spanish Fort. It is reported from New Orleans, on the 6th, that Canby was within five miles of the city, with siege guns, able to shell the suburbs. The attack on Fort Blakely had commenced.

Wilson's cavalry had reached Russelville, Alabama, and were moving on Selma, Montgomery, and Mobile.

Henry Ward Beecher has made a speech deprecating harsh measures against the South.

Friday has been appointed by the Governor of New York as a thanksgiving-day for the recent victories.

Sir Frederick Bruce has arrived here, and leaves to-day for Washington.

The 'Herald' says that British troops from Jamaica arrived at Belize on the 24th. The transfer of the troops is caused by Maximilian's alleged intention to annex a portion of Yucatan.

Mr. Seward has been thrown from his carriage and his arm broken and jaw fractured. He is progressing favorably.

FALL OF RICHMOND.

EXCITEMENT IN NEW YORK.

The citizens of New York will long remember Sunday. It was a day of excitement, of agitation. Rumors of battles, of great successes, were rife Telegrams, signed by the President himself, were arriving every hour or two, and as time passed and the good news increased, crowds formed in corners, eagerly discussing the chances of a signal victory and the consequently anticipated peace. Extras were issued by the journals, and news-boys rushed through the streets, increasing the popular excitement by their shouts, "Great victory of Grant," "Petersburg captured," Twelve thousand prisoners," &c. Crowds wending their way to the different places of worship were arrested by these cries, and eagerly purchased the papers. All along the line Grant was successfully pushing the Confederates. Towards night the whole town was alive with the news, and, although it was Sunday, banners were hung out, and shouts were heard for Grant and Sheridan.

On Monday all this agitation culminated. New York went almost mad with joy and exultation. It were vain to attempt any description of the appearance of the city and people. Even in Wall-street the worship of the golden calf was for a time discontinued, and brokers sung the 'Old Hundreth,' 'John Brown is marching along,' &c., mingling hymns and patriotic songs in their delirium. There were persons who stood still and shouted till they were hoarse; others, pale with excitement, could utter no word, but rushed about, catching people by the hand, or around the neck, sobbing, dancing with joy. At almost every corner were to be seen men mounted on carriages, steps, barrels, anything which raised them above the crowd, making stirring speeches which were constantly interrupted by the cries of the irrepressible multitude. On all sides flags were displayed; ladies hastily tied on knots of ribbon—red, white, and blue—to their bonnets or other apparel; children ran about with miniature banners; in short, it was a frenzied rejoicing over the long-delayed, long and ardently expected, capture of Richmond. The national vanity seemed satisfied, and, to render all more happy, an universal belief prevailed that now peace was indeed at hand.

"What will they say of us in Europe?" was the general inquiry. "We'll show John Bull and Nap what stuff we are made of," shouted some; but the majority were content with the present triumph. They rushed into bar-rooms, and drank and drank; Champagne corks popped all day long; and towards evening half of New York was dead drunk. At Delmonico's the upper classes had their rejoicings, and vastly did they lower the excellent cellar of that prince of caterers. Old wines, at prices which on any other occasion caused even the shoddiest of shoddy to pause, were on this evening poured out like water. It was indeed a stirring jubilee. In Union-square platforms were erected and speeches made. The club-houses were beautifully illuminated; many private dwellings were also brilliant with Chinese lanterns; while rockets were sent up and cannons fired off. But the great and peculiar feature of the jollification was the singing of patriotic songs. Thousands upon thousands joined in the chorus: and the sound rose and rolled over the town, becoming a mighty expression of popular will and power. I must say that this was to me one of the most impressive scenes I ever witnessed. I was in Milan the day after Magenta—in Paris diring the rejoicings for the victory of Solferino—in London when it was known that Sebastopol had been captured; but I never heard or witnessed any thing more impressive than the scenes of which I have at tempted to give you a faint idea. To-day all New York is hung with 'bunting.' There is scarcely a dwelling which has not several flags protruding from windows and doors. All public places are literally covered with them. The horses in the streets have them attached to their harnesses: in short, the display of nationality and gratification is immense. This morning at ten—I am writing very early in the day, as the mail closes at eleven—services will be held in all the churches, and very soon we are to have an immense demonstration, a monster turnout, which will, it is said, throw into the shade all previous attempts on record.

In an article on American affairs the 'Star' says:

"If rumour is to be credited, Jefferson Davis made overtures of peace to President Lincoln, offering to give up the war if an amnesty were granted and he and his followers were restored to the rights of citizenship. The President did not at the time feel himself able to accept this proposal, but communicated it to Mr. Seward, who strongly advised that peace should be secured on the proposed terms, and that Congress should be asked to give validity to the arrangement. But in the meanwhile Lee had made the attack on Fort Steadman, and the contest was again remitted to the arbitrament of battle. Whether the story be true or not, we feel sure that the great nation which, after so many struggles and stupendous sacrifices, has achieved a decisive triumph will act with clemency and moderation, and while destroying slavey, root and branch, will be more than generous even to the misguided faction who for four years have desolated their country."

FRANCE—SPEECH OF THE EMPEROR.

Paris, April 17.

The Emperor received the deputation with the Address of the Corps Legislatif at 2 p.m. yesterday. His Majesty thanked the deputation, and added: "Every year you defend with firmness the fundamental laws which maintain a just equilibrium between the powers of the State. The country is grateful to you for this. Under the present régime its life is being developed. It sees administrative obstacles disappear, progress is ensured, and security guaranteed. By the electoral movement, and the voice of the tribune, and the press, it feels that it is free. Thus, far from wishing to cut down the tree which has borne good fruit. the mass of the labouring classes, the classes who possess, the men who remember, and those who hear and read, fear the abuse of liberty even more than the abuse of power Continue your labours, the object of which is the moral and material improvement of individuals by the education and labour of the commune and the department, and the extension of their powers. Without incessantly wishing to change everything, let us be content with daily bringing a fresh stone to the edifice, the foundation of which is broad, and cannot be raised too high."

His Majesty's speech was received with applause.

The 'France' of this evening asserts that the journey of the Emperor to Algeria has been definitively resolved upon, and that he will start on the 24th inst.

The 'Presse' adds that his Majesty will be absent from France for 25 days,

THE LATE MR. COBDEN.

The news of the death of Mr. Cobden was received with great regret in Paris, where the lamented gentleman was well known and had numerous friends. All the journals pay a tribute of respect to his memory The official 'Moniteur' concludes a long article in his praise with the following expression:—"Cobden was able to understand France, and he loved her. She will never forget him." In the Corps Legislatif also the event was referred to in terms of genuine feeling. "This death," said Mr. de Roquette, "is a misfortune not only for England but for France herself, who will sincerely deplore his loss, and share the deep regret it causes." "Yes," responded another deputy, "let England know that our regret is unanimous." Some modification in the press law is understood to be contemplated by M. Lavalette, by which an incriminated writer will have an opportunity of defending himself before the official warning is shaken over his head. Anxiety is beginning to be felt in the French capital on account of the plague now raging in Russia, and represented to be making a movement eastward.

MAUA & CO. & THE LONDON & BRAZILIAN BANK

The following circular has been issued to the shareholders in the London and Brazilian Bank:

Sir—The directors have much satisfaction in informing their shareholders that they have, subject to their approval, concluded a provisional arrangement with Messrs. Mauá and Co. for an amalgamation of the large and important business, including the privilege of issue of bank notes at Monte Video and Rosario, carried on by that firm in Brazil and the River Plate, with the business hitherto carried on by this bank. The amalgamation will be effected by means of the incorporation of a new joint-stock bank, with limited liability, having a nominal capital of £5,000,000 sterling, in 250,000 shares of £20 each, one-half of which is to be paid up. Of the 250,000 shares, 150,000. with £10 per share paid up, will be allotted to Messrs. Mauá and Co., in exchange for cash or approved securities to that amount, and the remaining 100,000 shares will be placed at the disposal of this bank. The proposed amalgamation will take effect as from the 1st of January, 1866, after which date neither of the two banks will carry on business on their own account. The management of the new bank will be constituted by the present Board of Directors of the London and Brazilian Bank, joined by the Baron de Mauá, the senior partner in the firm of Messrs. Mauá and Company. The directors propose to call together their shareholders at an early date, for the purpose of considering the mode of raising the amount of capital which will form the contribution of this bank to the amalgamated undertaking.—I am, Sir, yours, &c.,

JOHN BEATON, Secretary.

NEWS FROM MONTEVIDEO.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES.

AURIFEROUS EASE.

ZOZIMUS IN TROUBLE.

Prepared as you all are in Buenos Ayres to hear the most extraordinary things from this place, it is extremely difficult for me to pick up anything which will excite interest or create astonishment; I do my best, Heaven knows, and run about from square to square, looking in at the shop windows, out on the pavements, over small walls, through narrow 'patios,' yet there is nothing, positively nothing to write about. Two columns a day for the 'Standard' in the present weather, is, I do assure you, equal to ten when the sun shines. To-day has been a hideous day; cold ugly murky weather, blowing, raining, freezing, thawing: Montevideo is becoming insupportable.

The packet is to leave this evening, but Captain Curlewis had better look out, for I do verily believe it will be an awful night. I am glad, however, to say that notwithstanding the shocking state of the weather, I have some very surprising news for the 'Standard.' Will you believe it? Flores they say is a FENIAN; I of course don't believe it, but the rumour is current here that when he finishes with Paraguay he is determined to liberate Ireland, and that a Fenian deputation from Chicago is shortly expected to arrive to wait on our Provisional Governor. However true this may be I cannot say, but certain it is that since the Governor's return from Buenos Ayres he is an altered man. Some say that it is the change of domicile, but I strongly suspect that he must have had an interview with Captain Irwin, about whom, apropos, there is a rather good story told.

Captain Irwin proposed to raise an English, Irish, Scotch and American brigade, and for that purpose they say sought an interview with your Minister of War; Gelly it appears knew something about the Captain's intentions from a paragraph which a clerk in the foreign office translated for him from the 'Standard.' When the Captain waited on the Minister, he was at once ushered into the private office with as much ceremony as if he was the Duke of Wellington, but Gelly is no Irishman and therefore little understands the Hibernian system of listing. Gelly can't speak one word of English, and the Captain never looked into an Ollendorf, so it was difficult without the aid of an interpreter to come to terms; but the Captain I hear was down about the Paseo Julio all the morning trying to gather together his brigade, and Gelly evidently knew nothing about this. To make a long story short, there was a difficulty in the Minister's office, great as if Lopez himself was there; and from that day to this, any man who speaks about Irwin or his brigade to the Minister, runs a risk of being handed over to your friend Cazon.

It is rumoured here that Gomensoro has been removed, the reason of this is I believe that he stopped too long at Bella Vista. Gomensoro I am told is not a Brazilian but an Oriental, being born at Cerro Largo, his removal is not therefore much relished here, but the Baron is furious at his delay, and tells every one that Barroso will soon make short work of the Paraguyan fleet.

Three Portuguese men-of-war were seen in the bay. The damaged Peruvian iron-clad which put into Rio, it is said has been bought by the Brazilian Government, repaired in the Arsenal, and will be in the River Plate this week.

Gold still keeps coming from Buenos Ayres. I cannot understand what this gold is imported for. Money is so easy here, that people don't know what to do with their surplus funds: I think that this is a favorable time for the Argentine Government to enter our market for a loan. Two millions sterling, provided Mitre is willing to take it in light sovereigns, could be easily negotiated at par. I have it from one of the leading merchants of this place, that within the last month, half a million has been imported in foreign gold. If things go on much longer as they are going, I expect to see gold at a discount, and paper money at a premium.

Your correspondent 'Americus' has a sharp look out for 'Zozimus;' he comes to me every day, as I promised to help him in his search. Some of these days there will be a row something like that between the Captain and the Minister, but 'Americus' since he attacked the Rev. Mr. Adams is not thought much of.

The natives here all labor under the impression that Morgan the great beef curer is a brother to our worthy dentist; both will probably do a good business, one preserving beef and the other teeth. The dentist is a very popular man here and does a large business.

Owing to the great increase of disease, there is a rumour to the effect that all vessels with troops on board will be placed in quarantine: the mortality amongst the Brazilians is really frightful, and all the Doctors in town are kept busy in the hospital. The Quarantine regulation may not be relished at Rio: the best and most advisable course to adopt would be to send the troops up to Colonia or to Gualeguaychú, where infection is less dangerous.

The Pacifico has at last arrived: she brings the most stunning news about the American rebellion, which I am happy to see is almost extinguished. We are all in the most unbounded glee here, and a serenade is talked of: also illuminations. If there is any sport depend upon it I'll be there, for such thinfis are proper food for newspapers. The American Consul, however, is a very poor public speaker: we want the Minister for such an occasion. They say that Mauá has bought up the London and River Plate Bank, or joined the Brazilian, I don't know which, but I give you the rumour for what it is worth. I think there must be some mistake, although all Montevideo is full of it.

I have no more time to write more, but if there is anything very particular during the night, I will despatch a whaleboat in the morning, so that you can again say another editorial triumph, thanks to our wide awake correspondent

ZOZIMUS.

MONTEVIDEO.

May 13.

The Mersey arrived at ½ past 1 p.m. The news by her is not as important as expected. The sloop of war Satellite returned from a cruise to the South banks of the River, to ascertain if the account published in the 'Standard' was true in relation to the bodies of the ill fated ship Bombay, having been washed ashore there. They found that it was true that they had been washed ashore, but also that they had been buried: some of them in the Cemetery at Magdalena and others who were in such dreadful state of putrefaction that they could not be removed and were buried there. You were wrong in alluding to the funds subscribed so very generously in Buenos Ayres and Montevideo for the relief of the dependent relatives, to make it appear that these funds were to be distributed amongst the survivors of the ship, as the intention was quite the contrary. It was well known that many of these brave fellows who perished left some of their families and old and feeble relatives, who were dependent upon them for subsistence, and it was for them that the money was subscribed; and when Captain Colin Campbell returns to the River Plate in the Narcissus frigate, he will probably be able to inform the subscribers to the fund of its disposal, and how employed. I assure you it will not be employed in the same manner as the funds subscribed for the relief of the sufferers by the earthquake of Mendoza. While the Satellite was out on her cruise, she had a terrible accident, by the explosion of a Congreve rocket in one of the boats that was practising with these dangerous implements. Some of the rockets were carelessly left exposed in the boat, and a spark from one that was fired from the gun ignited one of them, which made awful work. Several of them jumped overboard: one of them was killed, and the three others were horribly burnt. They were immediately transferred to the English Hospital when the ship arrived here, and two of them may possibly recover under the efficient treatment of Dr. Lawrie. By some mishap the chief surgeon of the ship was left behind; a most important person to be on board on such a mission as that which the ship went upon.

The mortality amongst the Brazilians here is much on the increase. On the 11th there were 18 deaths, and yesterday 13. They die off like sheep of the small-pox: the greatest mortality is amongst those soldiers from the Amazon River: a great part of them are Indians or 'half-breeds,' who know nothing of vaccination, and they are mostly taken with the worst type of this dreadful disease. Your ex-agent of the 'Standard' office, Mr. Ryan, has been taken with a very patriotic turn, and joined the Brazilian army as body-guard to Admiral Tamandaré, and goes on the triple crusade to conquer the Paraguayans. We will be able to give you some very graphic accounts of his peregrinations during the campaign.

Amongst the passengers who leave in the Cordova to-day for Europe, is one of your respectable commission merchants, Mr. Edwin Upton, a gentleman long known in the River Plate as one of the most gentlemanly and honorable of your citizens. He goes home on a visit, on account of the sudden death of his brother, Charles Upton, of disease of the heart, at Salem, Massachusetts, and also the death of his sister-in-law, the wife of James Upton.

In the Saintonge also goes one of your staunchest old merchants with his family, Mr. Richard O'Shee, leaving for a tour to Europe. The establishment of Bate and Co. has been sold within a few days for $6,000 (patacons), and the two present partners, Messrs. Whitman and Vandenegeed intend leaving for the United States. We have had plenty of rain to-day, and the ground has a good soaking.

LATEST FROM CORRIENTES.

Esquina, April 29.

To the Editors of the 'Standard.'

Gentlemen,

The day before yesterday eight steamers and a transport, under the Brazilian flag, reached this. They passed the night here: early on the following day they bent their course upwards. Soon after one of the vessels returned with word the river was too low to pass, that those that could pass the shoal water had gone. The river still continues to fall. Here we have all sorts of news; some say the Paraguayans are 25,000 strong, others 1,000. One thing certain is, they are in our capital, and are doing just what they please there as well as in the surrounding departments. By this time Lagraña may have 4,000 men embodied, all cavalry, well mounted, but badly armed and officered, and otherwise badly provided for. San Roque is where the head-quarters are. In fine here we are for the last four days but 60 leagues from the capital, still no one knows what is being done there. Some say the invaders mean to take the Provice and make a permanent possession of it, others think will they soon have to move, things are not very satisfactory in the Department of Goya as well as here. All Argentines from 17 to 60 have been enrolled and marched to San Roque without respect to persons, many have migrated to parts unknown, to the woods and other places which they deem more secure than the villages. We have no more 'Standards,' I am sorry for it, I have had but five minutes time to write you this dribblet.

Yours,

SINBAD.

2,000 National Bonds at 37.

The specie market could not be firmer. Patacons fell 15 centessimos, owing to the non arrival of specie by the packet and the near approach of peace in the United States. Things at home are represented as very unsteady, and although cotton has not declined as much as was apprehended, still there is a dread that on the restoration of peace in the United States, there will be a financial crisis throughout the world; without participating in this apprehension, we state the matter as one of the causes which it is said has at present a prejudicial effect on paper money.

The demand for gold to-day was felt as if from unseen quarters, brokers who never speculate were buying evidently to fill orders.

National Bonds are in demand. Some brokers who have sold heavily on time, are now 'short.' They must get the bonds to fill their contracts yet holders are inexorable; it was said on 'Change that one English house had received orders to invest a large sum in these securities. But by far the most absorbing topic on 'Change today was the financial wedlock between the Mauá and London and Brazilian Banks. This news has completely taken our mercantile community by surprise. The new concern boasts of such a stupendous capital for these countries, five millions sterling, that it is generally believed it will monopolize the whole banking business of Rio and the River Plate.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA AND CO.

No. 103 Calle de Cangallo,
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artizans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m., for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The bank of Mauá and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres, September 19, 1868.

Pp. Mauá and Co.
WILLIAM LESLIE

CONDITIONS.

First—The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty-five Dollars currency Silver Dollar upwards.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6 p Ξ) per annum, which is liquidated ever six months.

Third—The depositors can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars curreney, or one thousand dollars silver, the depositor, if he wishes, can open an account current, according to the rules established by the Bank.

Fifth—In case the depositor loses his pass book, it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.
